VII. Evaluation:

Building character and self-discovery to get ready for a comfortable work life were the main topics of the seminar. The speaker began by using SpongeBob SquarePants characters to get us to reflect on our own characteristics. he also talked about difficult questions like "What are your strengths and weaknesses?" that many audiences find hard to answer because they find it awkward to answer. The speaker emphasize the value of traits like generosity, humility, and morality. The second speaker highlighted various characteristics and student preferences for their workplaces while introducing the Filipino Work Values Scale and sharing the findings of a test we performed. The overall goals of the seminar were to assist us in finding a comfortable work environment and preparing for the workforce, particularly as it relates to on-the-job training (OJT).
